

Introduction to Sketchbook Journaling Workshop

Are you hunger to be creative? Looking for a relaxing activity that will improve your art skills with no pressure? Regular drawing in a sketchbook can bring joy and reward to your life - even if you say your not an artist. :)

Instructor: Linda Marino

Linda will share her passion for sketchbook journaling in this hands-on workshop. We will start with the basics - materials, mark making and color mixing. Linda will guide you step by step on basic observation drawings and then adding color to our sketches. Our focus will be on creating drawings from simple things found in the kitchen - using mostly colorful fruits and veggies, dishes and cups. This workshop will help you build your drawing confidence while having a whole lot of fun. Designed for beginners in mind, however all levels are welcome and encourage to join in. Creating art in a supportive community refreshes the soul.

You will need to bring your own watercolor sketchbook and a few supplies - pencil, fine Sharpee marker and small watercolor paint box. Some supplies will be included.

Artist and Art instructor Linda Marino is exhibiting her work during the month of March at the WWML in Stony Creek. Join us for a colorful and creative afternoon!
